

Owning a car is a journey. We're with you every mile.

You know how much your car means to you. It's your chariot. Your sidekick. Your usually faithful companion. Chances are, you may even have a pet name for it. But when it comes to shopping for a new car, or finding the right mechanic to repair it, that's where some real challenges come in. And that's where it helps to have a guide. Someone with the knowledge and resources to help you through the entire process.

At State Farm®, we're here to help life go right. And as the country's largest auto insurer, we want to lend an experienced hand and offer our expertise. We've even gone out and partnered with some outstanding resources you already know and trust. Edmunds.com, the online leaders in car shopping and comparison, and OpenBay.com, an innovative site that lets you locate just the right mechanic.

Car shopping shouldn't be hard work.
That's why we're working with Edmunds.

Just thinking about shopping for a car can fill your mind with questions. Should you go with this model or that? New or used? Buy or lease? What is your trade-in really worth? It can feel like you'll never know enough. That's where it helps to have a truly knowledgeable partner. So we've teamed up with Edmunds.com, the largest and most trusted online search source out there. With Edmunds, shopping for a car suddenly becomes a whole lot more manageable.

Edmunds has tools for every stage of the car shopping process. You'll find expert and user reviews of the car you're interested in. Comparisons to similar vehicles. And perhaps best of all, real insight into how much that car should cost. Through their association with 13,000 dealers, they can give you the leverage to get you the best possible price. You can even get an online quote so you'll walk into a dealership on an equal footing with the sales people. We're excited about working with Edmunds, and hope you'll check out what we're doing together. Just go to Edmunds.com/statefarm.

Vehicle Ownership Experience

OpenBay makes car repair less stressful. That makes them a great partner, too.

You know how it feels when your car needs repairs. Even if you have a mechanic you trust, it's a big hassle. But what if you have to find a mechanic first? How do you know they're trustworthy? And responsive. And affordable. That's why we're teaming up with OpenBay.com. It's an ingenious online service that does all the vetting of repair shops for you. It helps you find someone who will take care of your car the way you would.

OpenBay.com takes the work out of getting work done. You just log in, and describe your car's problem. Then OpenBay reaches out to its network of trusted mechanics and repair shops to request service quotes on your behalf. When the quotes come in, you get to compare them based on price, customer reviews and distance from your home. Then you can book your appointment, and even pay online. You can learn more about OpenBay, and our partnership with them at openbay.com/statefarm.

What a great team to hit the road together.

Your car does so much for you, it's practically part of the family. At State Farm, we understand that. That's why we've put together a family of partners to help guide you through every part of the car ownership process. From shopping to servicing to selling. Together, we can help make the road ahead as smooth and direct as possible. Why not check out what we've put together for you?
